Wait for the Lord;
 be strong and take heart
 and wait for the Lord.

– PSALM 27:14 NIV

Yesterday, was a day one could say “why me?”. However, as I always remember, “Count it all joy when you fall into various trials knowing that the testing of our faith produces patience. But let patience have its perfect work that you may be perfect and complete, lacking nothing.” Yes, from the book of James.” I was enjoying my Saturday morning cup of coffee with my husband when he announced at 7:10 am that we had a meeting at the Church at 8:00 am. I rushed to get ready to go. On my way to the Church, I thought I should stop and get gas as I was planning on going to a memorial at noon then to Carson to visit with my dad. I filled the car with gas and then when I went to put the key in the ignition, it decided not to go in. Then when it did go in, it wouldn’t turn on. I waited patiently for a tow truck. When I called to check the ETA, I was told it may be another two hours ☹️. Needless to say, I missed meetings and all my Saturday fun at Church. I waited three hours for help. Here’s the joy: the station attendant tried to help. Then my husband came to my rescue, but he couldn’t turn the key. Then three hours later (with a lot of things that happened in between), my son-in-law, Nick came with a temporary solution. The challenge was then we were almost late for the memorial. I didn’t realize how important it was to me until we almost couldn’t go. But when we got there, I was blessed from beginning to end. The blessings were abundant. Our dear friend, Don was well remembered. We met his niece and visited with his son, Ty. We spent time with friends. I met a woman who had the whipple surgery 5 years ago and is pancreatic cancer free. That was encouraging as my friend, Janice is still in recovery after 6 months and my bosses father just had the same surgery just weeks ago. I witnessed love and caring all through the day. My car is still ill. It may take a lot to fix it, but it is 18 years old. My daughter and Nick showed true character and love. Linda helped so much. I did not get to visit my dad however Sheryll was with him. Even though, I am truly blessed. “This was a day the Lord had made; let me rejoice and be glad in it!” Amen!
